

Countries and continents

The world is made up of land and water.

The land is where we live.

The bits of water are called oceans.

There are seven big pieces of land that we call continents.

Each continent has different countries on it.

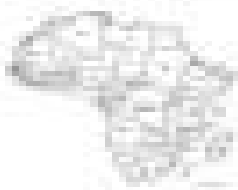

Australia is very special because we are the only country on our continent.

The biggest country in the world is Russia.

The smallest country in the world is Vatican City.

The seven continents are:

Africa

Asia

Europe

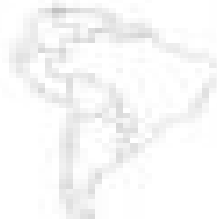

Australia

North America

South America

Antarctica
