

I Have a Dream...

Use Student Journal Entry 18 to give a reading assignment regarding an excerpt from Martin Luther King Jr.'s speech. Then use the next page to facilitate discussion.

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

These students that see this, they believe all the good for you the righteousness of the cause. "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."

