

University of Phoenix Material

Learning Objectively Based Matrix

Topic	Behavior	Attitude	Skills	Knowledge
Abstract  Analysis  Theory	Students theory explains how an individual learns and how the brain an impact the brain structure. Learning theories are used to inform through education. These theories help people learn through education. In addition to these &amp; other terms, students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings.	Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings.	Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings.	Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings. Students are able to explain the role of experience for each of these theories in educational settings.