Self Check Revisions

Remember: The stage of revising is simply to review and improve your writing!

Reread your story. Ask the following questions of yourself. Use the 3-0 scale to rate your thoughts, then give the reason you chose that rating.

1. Does my writing sound interesting to me?

3                      2                      1                      0

2. Do I use enough details?

3                      2                      1                      0

3. Are the ideas in the correct order?

3                      2                      1                      0

4. Does the beginning of the story make the reader want to read my story?

3                      2                      1                      0

5. Does the closing allow the reader to feel what I want for them to feel?

3                      2                      1                      0

6. Did I use good modifiers (adverbs and adjectives)?

3                      2                      1                      0
