

English Form	Simple Verb (Present)	Continuous (Present)	Infinitive (Base form)	Inflected Continuous (Present)
	is	is	to	is
Put	How do I put this on? I washed the car for you yesterday.	We are putting things away because I am going to school at last.	To put this on put instructions please that I showed you about gas.	We are putting things away. I am putting things away. How are you putting things away? I am putting things away.
	We put up a room to sleep in for the weekend.	We aren't putting any more toys away because we don't need them.	We put up a room to sleep in for the weekend.	We aren't putting any more toys away because we don't need them. I am putting things away for the weekend.
	Put the books away. The children put the books away.	What are you putting away? Where are you putting it away?	What are you putting away? Where are you putting it away?	What are you putting away? Where are you putting it away?
Repeat	They are putting books in the school.	They are putting books in the school.	They are putting books in the school.	They are putting books in the school.
	We put the books in the school.	We are putting the books away.	We put the books in the school.	We are putting the books away.
	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?
Repeat changed	We are putting books in the school. The children are putting books away.	We are putting books in the school. The children are putting books away.	We are putting books in the school. The children are putting books away.	We are putting books in the school. The children are putting books away.
	I am putting books away in the school.	I am putting books away in the school.	I am putting books away in the school.	I am putting books away in the school.
	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?	What are you putting away in the school?