

Project Two Comparison/Contrast Worksheet

Directions: First look over your Rhetorical Elements Worksheet and decide what 4-6 elements you will focus on in your Formal Essay. List those elements in the outline below (add more Roman Numerals if you have more than four main points) in a logical order (this order may change later, but it will serve to get you started). Then, fill in the similarities and differences you found within the articles for each of the elements you will discuss in your essay. Be sure to fill in specifics and quotes, this way you may turn each one into a paragraph in your essay. For each element, write a topic sentence, a supporting sentence, and a concluding sentence. The conclusion will be the last paragraph. The essay will be about 500-600 words.

- I. Introduction
- II. Thesis
