

Combining Sentences Using Coordinating Conjunctions (FANBOYS)

1. Mary loves broccoli.
Her husband, John, hates broccoli.
Write your sentence here:

2. Keiko has a calculus test on Friday.
Keiko needs to study.
Write your sentence here:

3. Maria is typing a letter to her friend.
Her brother, Paul, is reading the newspaper.
Write your sentence here:

4. Tom woke up late.
Tom made it to school on time.
Write your sentence here:

5. I am bringing a tuna casserole to the party.
Mike is bringing potato salad.
Write your sentence here:

6. Jim had to work on Saturday.
Jim couldn't go to the park.

Write your sentence here:
7. The water is very cold in January.
The members of the Polar Bear Club go swimming anyway.
Write your sentence here:

8. The air conditioning has been turned up really high.
I'm very cold.
Write your sentence here:

9. The water was very rough.
The lifeguards made all of the swimmers leave the water.
Write your sentence here:

10.
Mike jogs two miles every morning.
Then he gets ready for work

Combining Sentences Using Subordinating Conjunctions

1. Enrique came to the United States only three years ago. He speaks and writes English beautifully.

2. Computers are no longer very expensive. Many people are using them in their homes.

3. Many students gather in the Student Lounge. They have nothing to do between classes.

4. Don't talk rudely to Bruno. You want your face rearranged.

5. You are in my hometown. Please come to my place and visit.

6. The car needs an inspection sticker. You can drive without worrying.

7. I was driving down the main street. I saw a robbery in progress.

8. Gina attends the university. She has to graduate from high school first.

9. You have thrown out the garbage. You can watch TV.

10. The summer session is over. Will you take some more classes?

11. Albert watched the game. His wife took care of the baby.
