

Microsome and Karyogametes

Instructions:

1. Read the passage below and fill in gaps with the given words.

Microsome is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process.

Microsome is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process. It is the first stage of the cell division process.

Trunk, Branch, Canopy, Root, Soil