

Boyle's Law

When the volume of a gas decreases, the pressure of the gas increases.

When the volume of a gas increases, the pressure of the gas decreases.

(see bicycle pump transparency)

Charles' Law

When the temperature of a gas increases, the volume of the gas also increases.

When the temperature of a gas decreases, the volume of the gas also decreases.

(see candle transparency)