

THE HISTORY OF BIRKENHEAD

Before the gates

People used to walk from the gates of the houses across to the 17th Century Tavern at the gate. The Tavern was built by the 17th Century and was used as a place where people could meet and talk.

In 1700 a bridge was built across the river and the houses were placed on either side of the river. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

In 1700 the houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

After the gates

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.

The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk. The houses were built by the 17th Century and were used as a place where people could meet and talk.