

THE BILL OF RIGHTS FOR GIFTED CHILDREN

- 1. The right to be interested
- 2. The right to be challenged
- 3. The right to explore interests in depth
- 4. The right to create products or performances for real-world consumption.
- 5. The right to be excused from drill on material already mastered
- 6. The right to contact with intellectual peers
- 7. The right to be involved in decision-making about his/her educational programs
- 8. The right to express divergent points of view.
- 9. The right to be unique and different in a society that values conformity and equality.
- 10. The right to have time for thinking and dreaming
- 11. The right to have support and stimulation from significant adults
- 12. The right to fail.

From the NCAGT Newsletter, December 1991