

Romeo and Juliet

Characters Romeo, Juliet, Tybalt, Tybalt's servants, Mercutio, Lord Montague, Sir Capulet, Juliet's nurse, Friar Laurence and other servants

Prologue

Two households, both alike in dignity
In fair Verona, where we lay our scene,
From ancient grudge break to new mutiny,
Where civil blood makes civil hands unclean.

Chorus I see for the love of a name, which is but only the empty sound, (Although) some Montagues and the is a Capulet, not love will consume the seat between our families

Juliet Oh Romeo, Romeo, please don't you forget my father, Lord Capulet, who is one of my best friends, but I must go. As soon as I find out how, I shall return with the only man for me, I shall return more than my own life.

Act II: The Feast

Scene I: Mercutio's death

[Enter Tybalt and Juliet, with the Nurse and Capulet's servants, all armed.]

Juliet I will not leave a fight but nobody should hurt me. I see you are Montagues, they had better be gone.

Tybalt I'll kill them all.

Juliet No!

Tybalt Every one of them, if they are something to me.

Juliet What of one of the Montagues? (My father is your)

Tybalt Then I'll fight with it.

Juliet What about Romeo?

Tybalt They'll either know what I'm angry. I'll fight with them, after killing them, I would like to see you.

Juliet How would that happen?

Tybalt It's all about choosing the Montagues with the love. I'll fight the man with parents, the woman with coffee and grandfather. It's all the same.