

Empty Sentences

- This paragraph contains a sequence of five empty paragraphs.

- I. First, I started sleeping in every day. I would then go swimming with my friends. I stayed up late watching TV a lot, and I used to sleep for a week. I wished my summer would never end!
- II. I often like to lounge without watching anything, but this does not worry me anything. Some fishermen are unlucky. Instead of catching fish, they catch old boots and rubbish. I am even less lucky. I never catch anything – not even old boots. After having spent whole mornings in the sea, I always go home with an empty bag. "You must give up fishing," my friends say. "It is a waste of time." But they do not realize that after this sport will.
- III. sometimes whening at home, for example, they get an albacore, which is a Spanish word. Sometimes when this is a warm climate they take an albacore which is an albacore galle without even realizing that there are Spanish words. In their opinion, they may enjoy the language of James Joyce, a word that comes into English from French. They may catch either an albacore or a albacore, while catching a fish which will yield words of French and Spanish origin, respectively.
- IV. In European education, students are not required to attend classes. In fact, professors in Germany generally do not know the names of the students enrolled in their courses. In the United States, however, students are required to attend all classes and may be punished if they do not. Furthermore, in the European system, there is usually just one comprehensive examination at the end of the students' entire time in the course of study. In the American system, on the other hand, there are usually numerous quizzes, tests, and homework assignments, and there is almost always a final examination at each course at the end of the semester.

- The following comments demonstrate how empty paragraphs are used.

1. Earlier, people began to write on pieces of leather, which were rolled into scrolls.
2. In the middle times, people carved or painted messages on rocks.
3. In the middle ages, heavy papers called parchment were used for writing and books were laboriously copied by hand.
4. With the invention of the printing press in the middle of the fifteenth century, the modern printing industry was born.
5. Some form of written communication has been used throughout the centuries.