	Date:
9th Grade Rea	ding Comprehension
Read the story below then answer the question.
	The Crisis
fact no one disputed. There was a more serious problem	er what kind of soldiers he was going to fight, so long as they fought, which n. He lay in his bunk pondering upon it. He tried to mathematically prove to he would not run from a battle.
never challenging his belief in ultimate success, and both of moment. It had suddenly appeared to him that perha	ously with this question. In his life he had taken certain things for granted, ering little about means and roads. But here he was confronted with a thing ps in a battle he might run. He was forced to admit that as far as war was d he knew nothing of himself.
	om to kick its heels at the outer portals of his mind, but now he felt compelled ve serious attention to it.
lurking menaces of the future, and failed in an effort to	went forward to a fight, he saw hideous possibilities. He contemplated the osee himself standing stoutly in the midst of them. He recalled his visions of the impending tumult he suspected them to be impossible pictures.
He sprang from the bunk and began to pace nervou	isly to and fro. "Good Lord, what's th' matter with me?" he said aloud.
quantity. He saw that he would again be obliged to expe and meanwhile he resolved to remain close upon his guan	Whatever he had learned of himself was here of no avail. He was an unknown eriment as he had in early youth. He must accumulate information of himself, rd lest those qualities of which he knew nothing should everlastingly disgrace if Lord!" he repeated in dismay.
What is "the crisis?"	