

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF PAUL REVERE

A POETRY READER FOR CHILDREN

1

He grew up tall and he grew up fast,
But his childhood years, they did not last.
At the age of thirteen, he went right to town.
In his father's silver shop, he worked til sundown.

He learned to make rings, and teapots, and more.
But after his father died, he entered a war.
He stayed for one summer, and left early one morn,
Moved back home to Boston, and wed Sarah Orne.
