Native American History

Native Americans are the first people who lived in North America. They lived in many different tribes, and each tribe had its own language, customs, and traditions.

Native Americans used the natural resources around them to meet their needs. Some tribes lived in teepees, while others lived in longhouses or adobe homes. They hunted, fished, farmed, and gathered food.

Today, Native American people continue to share and celebrate their cultures. Their traditions, art, music, and stories are an important part of American history.
