A Walk Through the Fall Park

On a cool autumn morning, Emma and her grandfather visited the local park. The trees were covered with bright red, orange, and yellow leaves. Some leaves floated gently to the ground as the wind blew.

They walked along the trail and listened to birds singing. Emma collected a few colorful leaves to make an art project at school. They also saw squirrels gathering acorns for the winter.

Before going home, they sat on a bench and drank warm apple cider while enjoying the beautiful fall scenery. Emma smiled and said it was her favorite season of the year.
