The Farmer's Wagon

Every Saturday in fall, Mr. Brown fills his wooden wagon with fresh pumpkins, apples, squash, and corn. Children visit his farm to see all the colorful vegetables and fruits.

The wagon becomes very heavy, so Mr. Brown's old horse slowly pulls it to the market. Many families buy fresh food for dinner. Before sunset, the wagon is almost empty because everything has been sold.

Questions:

1. What season is it?

2. What does Mr. Brown put in the wagon?

3. Who pulls the wagon?

4. Where does Mr. Brown take the food?

5. Why is the wagon almost empty?
