Native American Culture

Long ago, Native American people lived in many different tribes. Each tribe had its own home, clothing, language, and traditions.

Some tribes lived in teepees because they moved often. Other tribes lived in longhouses or pueblos. They built homes that worked well for the weather where they lived.

Native Americans hunted, fished, and farmed. They grew corn, beans, and squash. They also gathered berries and nuts from nature.

Families worked together every day. They made clothes, cooked food, and told stories. Music, dancing, and art were important parts of their culture.
